DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALT. For Inflammatory Diseases only. NEW MEDICAL SALT! NEW MEDICAL SALT! IT IS NOT A CURE-ALL. For Inflammatory Diseases Only!

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALT, instead of being a remedy for all ills, has control over but one ill, but that one alm, and accomplishes but one thing, to wit: SUBDUES INFLAMMATORY DISEASES, whatever be its form or locality, whether in the head, throat, abdomen, extremities or skin.

The peculiar excellence of the NEW MEDICAL SALT is, that without the useless loss of blood and strength, it effectually cures INFLAMMATORY DISEASES (no other) by producing an equilibrium of all the fluids in the body, the want of which is the sole cause of inflammation.

INVALIDS, TAKE NOTICE!! The following forms which the unbalanced fluids assume, and many not here mentioned, that have more or less fever, are as easily subdued by the NEW MEDICAL SALT, as fire is extinguished by water, to wit: Brain Fever, Headache, Rush of blood to the Head and Heart, Fits, Inflamed Eyes, Ears and Nose, Canker, Neuralgia, Spinal Affections, Erysipelas, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Asthma, Inflamed Lungs and Liver, Heartburn, Coughs, Dyspepsia, Venereal Diseases, Rheumatism, Gout, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, and all Itching and other cutaneous eruptions.

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALT exerts, like the vaccine matter, an extraordinary influence on the veins and arteries, resulting in a gradual decline of inflammation as indicated by the pulse, which soon resumes its natural state, as the heat, pain and fever disappear.

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALT does just what it claims to do—no more, no less—equalizes the fluids, by removing from the system all arterial and venous obstructions. Description circulars may be obtained from any Druggist who has this valuable medicine for sale.

DR. COGGSWELL'S NEW MEDICAL SALT. Get a Circular—Ask any Druggist about the NEW MEDICAL SALT. Ask your Neighbors about the NEW MEDICAL SALT. Ask any one you meet about the NEW MEDICAL SALT. The New Medical Salt for Inflammatory Diseases only.

HOWARD ASSOCIATION, PHILADELPHIA.
A Benevolent Institution, established by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, affected with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual Diseases, and the deceptions practised upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms, and to give medical advice gratis, to all who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, (age, occupation, habits of life, &c.,) and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, to furnish medicine free of charge. It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The directors of the Association, in their Annual Report upon the treatment of Sexual Diseases, express the highest satisfaction with the success which has attended the labors of the Consulting Surgeon in the cure of Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism or Self-abuse, &c., and order a continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year.

The Directors, on a review of the past, feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with renewed zeal, to this very important and much despised cause.

An admirable Report on Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, the vice of Onanism, Masturbation, or Self-abuse, and other abuses of the sexual organs, by the Consulting Surgeon, will be sent by mail (in a sealed envelope), FREE OF CHARGE, on receipt of TWO STAMPS for postage. Other Reports and Tracts on the nature and treatment of sexual diseases, &c., are constantly being published for gratuitous distribution, and will be sent to the afflicted. Some of the new remedies and methods of treatment discovered during the last year, are of great value.

Address, for Report or Treatment, Dr. GEORGE R. CALHOUN, Consulting Surgeon, Howard Association, No. 2 S. Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors.

Original Poetry.

"I heard a fluttering pinion start,
I heard the whisper of a strain."

The Poetess, Miss L. E. VICKROY, has been rambling.—She is still sojourning amid distant scenes; but the echoes of her warblings are heard with delight where the sweetness of her "native wood notes wild" have often blessed the hills and vales around her rural home. Listen to her "Bird Songs" now.

Next week you shall have a beautiful poem just fresh from her pen.

BIRD SONGS.

BY MISS LOUISE E. VICKROY.

Laura, now the Summer's over,
And the Summer birds have fled,
Listen, darling, and I'll tell you
At their parting what they said.

For I sat in lonely musing,
While the shadows deepen'd round,
Where the autumn winds came wailing,
With a low and dismal sound.

When I heard a pleasant twitter
'Midst the oak leaves waving high,
And just caught a little glimmer
Of light pinions rushing by.

And I saw the birds had gathered,
Flocks on flocks, among the trees,
And what they said been language,
Then their words had been like these:—

"Since the frost has killed the flowers,
And the angry tempests say
That the winter storms are coming,
It is time to go away,

"From this valley's sweet seclusion,
And its many dear delights,
And the woods that gave us shelter,
Through the summer nights,

"To the soft and sunny South-land
There to find a brighter home;
Where the sleigh-bells never jingle,
And the snow-clouds never come."

Then I, listening more closely,
Heard their separate voices tell
Of the sweet ideal places,
Wherein each one meant to dwell.

The swallow knew a lofty place,
Beneath a dark blue sky,
Where a light-house by the sea-side reared
Its friendly beacon high.

And the sparrow of a cozy nook,
A poor man's home beside;
And the blue-bird's castle was a tree,
In a forest wild and wide.

And the black-birds talked of rice fields,
On the Carolina plains;
But the robins said, "Where'er we go,
We know the Father reigns."

The thrushes knew the goodest spot,
Far in a cypress grove;"
And the orioles, "an orange bower,
In an atmosphere of love."

So they scarcely seemed to sorrow,
As they bade the North good-bye,
But with joyous greetings, for the South,
They swept across the sky.

Then I thought, O gentle Laura,
Of the mansions fair to see,
That may be our happy dwellings
In the far Eternity.

Where there falls no chill nor frost-blight,
Nor the shadow of the tomb;
But the holy plains forever wear
A fadeless Eden bloom.

O may there be no sorrow
In my strain that bids farewell
To this life, but for the future,
Let a joyous anthem swell.

For though death may dim the glory
Of the world we journey through,
Heaven will be always beautiful,
With birds, and flowers, and you.

BONNER THE GREAT.

We clip the following clever epistle from the Philadelphia Press:

APOTHEOSIS OF BONNER:—The greatest hit ever made in periodical literature was the publication of the famous "Chaldee Manuscript," written by the Ettrick Shepherd, and extend, with considerable satire and personality, by John Wilson and J. G. Lockhart. This article offended numerous readers of Blackwood's Magazine, in which it appeared, and led to a few libel suits. Some persons objected to its form, some to its satire. Eventually, however, this very article, for which the publisher felt bound to apologize at first drew much attention to Blackwood, was the foundation of its prosperity, and finaly became its boast. There have been many imitations of it, but few successful. The best appeared in the Knickerbocker Magazine several years ago and had Lewis Gaylord Clark, Professor Mapes, and some others of the same witty coterie, for its authors. A writer well known in this city, by the soubriquet of "Samuel the Scribe," has favored us with another imitation of the Chaldee Manuscript. It was written for the Press is dedicated to the Readers of the New York Ledger, (for which, by the way, it is said that Charles Dickens is engaged to write a serial, running through six months), and very cleverly enlarges on the spirit of Mr. Bonner, the Napoleon of weekly newspapers. We append it:

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF "SAMUEL THE SCRIBE" UNTO THE LEDGERIANS.

CHAPTER I.

1. Listen, O, Ledgerians! unto the counsel of "Samuel the Scribe," for his pen is that of a ready writer, and from his words ye may learn wisdom. Yea verily.

2. And it came to pass in the days of Franklin, whose surname is Pearce, that there tarried in the city of Gotham a modest man!!

3. Now, this modest man was a disciple of Faust, and he yearned not for the fleshpots of Egypt, but for the root of all evil.

4. And he said unto himself, I will straightway abandon the "stick" and the "case," and make for myself fame and fortune.

5. And immediately there was great rejoicing throughout the land, for the New York Ledger had been sown broadcast among the inhabitants thereof.

6. Now Robert, whose name is Bonner, said unto himself, This thing pleases me mightily, and hence forth the Ledger shall find an abiding place in every nook and corner of the land, even in the isle of the ocean.

7. And immediately there was gathered into the fold of Robert, whose surname is Bonner, the literati of the land.

8. Fanny, the fascinating, Sylvanus, whose surname is Cobb, Lydia, Alice, Emma, Phœbe, Emerson, whose surname is Bennett, Timothy, John, William, Thos. and George, the mighty poet of the West, all did write for the New York Ledger.

9. And Robert rejoiced with exceeding great joy, for his pockets were filled with shekels, and the Ledger circulated freely, yea, prodigiously!

CHAPTER II.

1. And it came to pass in the reign of James, the bachelor, that the maids and matrons of the land and Edward, whose surname is Everett, did counsel one with the other concerning the purchase of Mount Vernon on the Potomac, south of the line called Mason and Dixon's.

2. And Edward said, I will straightway prepare a lecture which shall melt the people, and cause them to contribute their mite unto the Fund called Mount Vernon.

3. Now Robert, whose surname is Bonner, when he heard those things, said unto himself, I will gird on my buckler of bank-notes and shekles—and astonish the natives!

4. He accordingly said unto Edward, Thy conduct commands my admiration; write thou but a single year for the Ledger and ten thousand dollars currency of the realm shall be thy reward.

5. And Edward said unto Robert, I accept thy gift offering to the fund called Mount Vernon, and will write for the New York Ledger for the space of twelve months.

6. Now Robert was again made happy, yea, thrice happy, for the Ledger did increase and multiply ten, yea twenty fold.

7. And it came to pass in those days that certain scribes, sojourners in the land of Uncle Samuel, became envious of the success of Robert, and they dipped their pens in gall and wormwood, and said "how are the mighty fallen!"

8. But Edward, the wise man of the East, took no heed of their sayings, and continued to write for the Ledger,

9. And straightway the fiat of the people went forth—Edward is wise and Robert is a "brick."

CHAPTER III.

1. And it also came to pass in those days that Robert, whose surname is Bonner, had a vision.

2. And in that Vision there appeared unto him an angel, bearing a scroll on which was inscribed in letters of gold—"BENNET! GREELY!! RAYMOND!!!"

3. And Robert said unto himself, The Lion, the Lamb and the Fox shall lie down together, and be enfolded in the sheets of the Ledger.

4. Now, when the multitude heard these things, they were greatly amazed, and said one unto the other, Verily, the ways of this man Bonner surpasseth our comprehensions.

5. And Robert said unto the multitude, Peace, be still, wait ye a little longer, and "you shall see what you shall see!"

6. And the multitude waited.

7. And it came to pass on the second day of the week, called Monday, that there was great commotion throughout the land.

8. The Ledger had gone forth on its mission; the multitude threw up their sombreros with joy, for the prediction of Robert was verified.

9. Lo, and behold! the Lion, the Lamb, and the Fox reposed lovingly together in the Ledger.

10. And the people throughout the length and breadth of the land, even the dwellers in the land of the Jersies, shouted with one accord: Bonner is great, and the Ledger is his Proyst."

☞ Young man, one of the first things you should consider is to build up a character. Allow us to tell you one thing about it, which we have learned from observation. It must be built like a pyramid to be firm and lasting—broad at the base. Then the foundation must be good, or even a pyramid would crack and fall to pieces. Get a reputation from early boyhood, for truth, honesty and industry, obedience to parents and teachers, and above all, piety. By and by your character will be as firm as a pyramid; a host of calumniators could not overthrow it. But if youth and early life is bad, to build a character on such a beginning would be almost as difficult as to build and poise a pyramid on its apex.

☞ A rascally bachelor says, "The friendship of two women is always a plot against a third."

An Irish Girl's Stratagem.

Molly, our house maid, is a dovel one, who handles the broomstick like a sceptre, and who has an abhorrence of dirt, and a sympathy for soap suds that amounts to a passion. She is a bustling, rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed, blundering Hibernian, who hovers about our book shelves, makes war upon our love papers, in the shape of undusted and unbrighted corners. One day she entered our library, in a confused and uncertain manner, quite different from her usual bustling way. She stood at the door, with a letter between her thumb and finger, which she held out at arms' length, as if she had a gunpowder plot in her grasp. In answer to our inquiries as to her business, she answered: "An it plase your honor, I'm a poor girl, an hain't much learnin, an ye se, plaze yer honor, Paddy O'Reily, and the better than him doesn't brathe in ould Ireland,, has been writin' me a lether—a love lether, plaze yer honor; an—an——"

We guessed at her embarrassment, and offered to relieve her by reading it to her. Still she hesitated, while she twisted a bit of raw cotton in her fingers. "Sure," said she, "an that's just what I want, but it isn't a gintleman like yerself that would be likein' to know ov the secrets between us, un so (here she twisted the cotton quite nervously) if it'll only plase yer honor, while yer reading it, so that ye may not here it yerself, y'll jist put this bit of cotton in yer ears, and stop yer hearing, and then the secrets 'll be all unbeknown to ye!" We hadn't the heart to refuse her, and so, with the gravest face possible, complied with her request, but often since we have laughed heartily as we related the incident.

CURIOUS FACTS ABOUT THE SEXES.—It is a singular fact, says a writer in one of our exchanges, that even when after death, nature respects the inherent modesty of woman, for when drowned she floats on her face, and a drowned man upon his back. The noblest part of a human being is the head; but the man's head is liable to baldness; woman is never bald. The man's face is often made repulsive on account of a harsh growing beard; and sometimes scarcely to be distinguished from the face of a brute beast; in woman, on the other hand, the face always remains bare and decent. For this reason women were, by the laws of the twelve tables, forbidden to rule their cheeks, lest hair should grow and obscure their blushing modesty. But the most evident proof of innate purity of the female sex is, that a woman having once washed is clean, and if she wash in second water will not soil it; but that a man is never clean—though he should wash in ten successive waters, he will cloud and infest them all.

NO SCOLDING.—If you wish to make your nieghbors and family happy—if you would see calmness and eveness of temper deloped in your children—if you would lighten the care, and smooth the path of the companion of your bosom—do not irritate or scold, or be in a passion when your humor is crossed, but remember that others have hearts as soft as yours and let the sunshine of christian meekness and gentleness always beam from your eyes. How happy will be a circle in such a case! Ah, this christian temper is about the only requisite to make firesides happy, places which husbands will regret to leave and be glad to return to. Let the husband be indulgent to annoyance of his ever working wife; and let the wife ever meet him with smiles when he comes home perplexed with the cares of business; and let both be forbearing under their mutual imperfections, and home will be more as God intended.

AN AWKWARD FIX.—The Brookville (Pa.) Jeffersonian of the 10th ult., says that a German, named Carb, while out hunting in Clearfield county, came across a bear trap, and having never seen one before, he entered for the purpose of examining it, but unfortunately touched the trigger, and was shut up. In this predicament he remained two days, nearly dead with hunger and cold, when the man who set the trap came to examine it, and found that, instead of a bear, he had caught a Dutchman.

☞ Death is an unwelcome guest and terrible at all times. When the grim monster approaches the aged, we are not so much shocked; we have all along expected him; but when the young and beautiful perish, when the destroying angel crosses our freshold and the voice that created our music becomes silent, 'tis then that a great shadow settles upon our home, that time and circumstance can hardly remove.

USE OF KNOWLEDGE.—Some men think that the gratification of curiosity is the end of knowledge; some the love of fame; some the pleasure of dispute; some the necessity of supporting themselves by their knowledg; but the real use of all knowledge is this, that we should dedicate that reason which was given us by God, to the use and advantage of man.

The Washington Tragedy.

Just at this time, when all the newspapers in the country, and, we may add, the majority of the people, are discussing the late bloody drama, enacted in the principal street of the Capitol of this mighty civil Republic, on the Holy Sabbath, by men high in authority, we may be permitted to comment a little thereupon, without exceeding the bounds of propriety.

'Tis true, when we received and read the first account of the horrible tragedy, as conveyed by telegraph, we sympathized with the homicide, and felt as though we should have pursued the same course to obtain redress for our grievances had we been placed in his situation. Knowing nothing about the character of Sickels other than as a politician and a member of Congress, we considered him an innocent and deeply injured man, and could easily conceive how much the baseness and boldness of Key's intercourse with his wife would exasperate him, and for this reason we were inclined to regard with leniency his rash act and really sympathize with him. But subsequent revelations made by the New York press, as to the depravity of Sickels private character, he having been refused admission into respectable society long since because of his debauchery and libertinism, and his being compelled to marry his wife, who was but sixteen years of age at the time, to prevent her being dishonored by his own act, (a child being born to them shortly after) together with the sober, second though, which in all cases follows such sudden outbursts of passion, have somewhat changed our views of the case. That the punishment inflicted upon Key was well merited, and really provoked by his actions on the day in question, all who have read the account of the affair will readily admit; but was this the way to meet it out to him? Will Divine Law, which should be our guide in deciding upon the case, sanction such proceedings? It may be urged that there were no other means by which the libertine could be reached and sufficiently punished. True, we know of none sufficient, in our opinion, but that is the fault of human laws. It may be urged, also, that Public Opinion sanctioned the deed; but Public Opinion is not always correct, as every Bible reader well knows. The fact that the participants in this tragedy moved in the first circles of wealth and fashion, gives it a peculiar prominence—that is to say, the indignity offered to Sickels was greater, on account of his position as a man of means and a Congressman, than it would have been were he merely a hod-carrier. Would the same excitement have been created and the same sympathy manifested had a poor hod-carrier deliberately shot down the destroyer of his happiness? No.—We know how the public view such cases, and we feel safe in asserting that the poor man, instead of receiving the spontaneous sympathy now expressed for Sickels would most likely have been lynched and hung upon the first tree, or burned at the stake; and the verdict of Public Opinion would have been—"served him right."—But would such an act really have been right? The poor hod-carrier could certainly feel the indignity offered him as deeply as the Congressman, and would he not, in this free country, where all are proclaimed equal, have the same right to resent it? Herein Public Opinion is wrong. It is no better criterion by which to be governed in the one case than in the other; hence we argue that it is a dangerous element and requires the most careful watching. Whilst in many, in fact most cases, we cheerfully accord to the majority the right to rule, yet human judgment is not infallible, and we should not be too hasty in drawing our conclusions, as we think we have already shown and shall further attempt to prove that it will lead us into grievous errors.

Again, it is urged that the Honor of Sickels was at stake and demanded the sacrifice; but this logic of Honor is hard to comprehend. We would illustrate its workings by introducing a case in point. A bully of the lowest class fancies himself insulted by some remark you have made and he forthwith assails and beats you.—The cry is raised, your Honor is at stake, and you must challenge him to a combat with weapons in which he will not have the advantage. Suppose you obey the cry, and meet your antagonist, will your second meeting, even though you should be successful, raise you to a greater height in the scale of real Honor than you would have attained had you passed by the indignity without notice. The answer is so plain we need not give it. You were not dishonored by his attack, neither could you be unless you should stoop to his level. Another case:—Your wife, or a near akin is seduced by a villain and immediately Honor says, kill him, he has dishonored you. How has he done so? If he had any Honor he may have dishonored himself, and perhaps his victim, to a certain extent; but you, who had no part in the transaction, who knew nothing about it—you are certainly not dishonored, because the case was beyond your reach to prevent. You may be a sufferer thereby, as in the first case mentioned, but not dishonored any more than he was. You can only be dishonored by some dishonorable act or purpose of your own, and the killing of the seducer as Honor would prompt, would be but to entail that dishonor, and add misery to your already miserable condition. Here again we find Honor—the false Honor of the day—equally as much at fault as Public Opinion, and it must be evident, to every reasonable mind, that neither are safe rulers, although their power is almost unlimited.

Having thus expressed our opinion in relation to the danger of following the lead of these two mighty, but often misguided rulers, let us turn and consider the precedent about to be established should the Grand Jury fail to find a true bill against Sickles, or a jury in the box acquit him of the crime now laid to his charge, as it has been publicly expressed that such would be the case. True, this is an aggravated case, but are there not hundreds of others equally so, about which the world at large knows nothing. Should Sickles be cleared, which we very much fear, will it not be virtually sustaining and encouraging murder? The notority given him thereby, and the winking at of such crimes by the law, will incite men to enact such scenes as the one to which we refer, under circumstances far less justifiable. Let a mat but entertain a doubt as to the chastity of his wife, (and here the quotation that comes in with great force,) and he can soon work himself into the belief that he is one of the most deeply injured men. Suppose, for one moment, that every man who knows or suspects his wife of having criminal connection with another man, should proceed to mete out punishment after the fashion of Sickles, how many men would be shot down in cold blood within the next twenty-four hours? Where would the end be? How would we distinguish between the cases? There must be some boundary to this mode of avenging such insults, but where are we to place it? In our opinion, it would be the wiser plan to give it no centre.

"Trifles, light as air,
Are to the jealous, confirmations strong
As proofs of Holy Writ."

While we commiserate the situation of Sickles, we have no desire to see him go unpunished. From an insight into the private character of the man, we believe he is now but reaping as he has sown, that it is a just and righteous retribution which he has brought upon himself by his own acts. The associations with which he surrounded his wife, while yet in her girlhood, might have led him to anticipate such a finale, and the fact that she was so free to confess the guilt of her paramour, and thereby avert vengance from her own head, shows her baseness, and must add the strongest evidence to her guilt. Whilst it is alleged and admitted that Sickles was lavish in his expenditures for her comfort, he nevertheless treated her indifferently at times, and it is therefore not to be wondered at that she, young and unexperienced, should seek companionship with those who carress but to betray. The guilt of all parties to this drama we consider equal, let what will be done with each.

BOYS' AND GIRLS' OWN MAGAZINE.—We have received the second number of this beautiful little Magazine. It will be the aim of the Boys' and Girls' Magazine to become a repository, where the young may pass a leisure hour, with pleasure and profit. It will endeavor to amuse them, in their hours of recreation, and urge them to the pursuit of knowledge, and ought to find a place in every family where there is a boy or girl to read it. Published by Wm. L. Jones, New York, at 6 cts. per copy, or 75 cts. per year.

CHOICE POETRY.—We have, for some time past, been publishing poetical gems, original and selected, from the pen of Miss Louise S. Pickray, a lady well known to many of our citizens. On our outside, today will be found one of her poems entitled "Bird Songs," to which we direct the attention of all lovers of genuine poetry and sentiment combined. There is in her effusions a simple and natural expression of the heart and affections which few, very few of the modern poets possess, but which all poetry must possess to commend it.—There is really so little of the essence of poetry in that given to the public as such, in these days, that it does us good to get hold of something like the "Bird Songs" or "Willie Bell." We have the promise of more of Miss V.'s effusions, and hope we may be able to present one or more each week.

CASSVILLE SEMINARY AND NORMAL SCHOOL.—From a Catalogue of this institution, received a few days since, we are led to believe that it is now in a prosperous condition. The number of students in attendance at last session was quite respectable. The principal, Mr. M. McN. Walsh, is fully competent to have charge of such an institution of learning, and all students entrusted to him will receive that care and attention which is necessary to fit them for any station in life. The situation of the seminary, away from pernicious influences, is also desirable. For terms, &c., send for a catalogue.

LADIES' HOME MAGAZINE.—We welcome this excellent little monthly, for March, to our table once more. Unassuming as it is, it is nevertheless worthy of notice. Without striving to create a sensation, by boasting and show, it nevertheless works its way slowly but surely into the affections of all into whose hands it chances to fall. Of course all the admirers of T. S. Authur and Virginia F. Townsend, and they are hosts, will subscribe for this Magazine. Terms $2,00 per annum. T. S. Authur & Co., publishers, Philadelphia.

☞ The annual election of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was held on Monday last, at the office of the Company, in Philadelphia. The ticket elected is the following: Directors—J. Edgar Thompson, Washington Butcher, William R. Thompson, Josiah Bacon, Thomas Mellon, John Hulme, G. D. Rosengarten, Wistar Morris, G. W. Cass, Samuel Megargee. The city directors elect are, Messrs. Joseph M. Thomas, Benjamin T. Curtis, and Horatio Wood.

P. M. GENERAL DEAD.—On Tuesday last, the telegraph announced that Post Master General Brown had died at 9 o'clock that morning. His health, for some time past, has been such as to lead us to anticipate the mournful tidings. His death occasions the utmost sorrow among all classes of the community at Washington.

IMPROVED.—The Blairsville American, Thos. S. Reid, editor and proprietor, lately appeared in an enlarged and improved form. It is now an eight column paper—a little too large for the county we think, nevertheless we should like to see our old friend liberally rewarded for his outlay.

MORE OF THE SICKLES AFFAIR.—The New York Tribune's Washington correspondent says: That the intimacy between Mrs. Sickles and Mr. Key was brought to her husband's attention a year ago is known. A Mr. B., of New York, whose name it is unnecessary to give in full, being rather a susceptible young man, last session fell violently in love with Mrs. Sickles, who was always free in manners, and flattered by devotion, as what woman is not? He soon became jealous of District Attorney Key, and watched him. At length he found what seemed to him a sufficient basis for his suspicions. It came to his knowledge that the guilty pair were locked together in a private room in one of our hotels, I believe for two hours. He communicated this fact to Mr. Sickles, who, to his kind informant's surprise, assailed him with abusive language and forbade him his house henceforward. Mr B. returned to New York crestfallen, and Mr. Key remained master of the field, continuing to be intimate with both man and wife as heretofore.

A MAN SHOT DEAD IN ATTEMPTING TO ROB HIS OWN HOUSE.—The Treasurer of the town of Erin, Wisconsin, was recently shot dead while attempting to rob his own house. Having collected some twelve or fifteen hundred dollars of the town taxes, he left home telling his wife that he would be absent all night. Toward evening a traveling pedlar applied at the house for a night's lodging. The wife at first refused to admit him, but finally yielded, with reluctance, to his request. Sometime in the night the pedlar was awakened by the noise of men breaking into his room. Taking them for robbers, he drew a pistol and fired at them. One fell and two fled. Lights being procurred the dead body of a man with blackened face and otherwise disguised, was found upon the floor. Upon further examination it proved to be the proprietor of the house himself, who had resorted to this stratagem to steal the money collected, and had met with this terrible retribution.

SKUNKS.—Great quantities of the hides of these "varmints" have been purchased in the different "necks of woods" hereabout the past Fall and Winter, and as high as $1 to $1 26, we learn, has been paid in many instances per skin. The demand for this kind of "fur" seems to have enamated in Europe, by the feminines, whence pretty much all our fashions are derived, and where the said "varmint" is not called by the undassical name of "skunk." Oh, no, "not by any manner of means!" but is known by the poetical name of the "Mountain Fisher."—Toledo Times.

LETTER FROM HARRISBURG.

HARRISBURG, March 8, 1859.

A divorce case, differing essentially from that of the Ery case, was summarily disposed of by the Legislature within a few days past. It appears that a man named Priestly, a resident of Philadelphia, inveighled a young lady into matrimony by some such 'potent spells and charms' the Venitian supposed Othello used to capture the fair Desdemonia. Priestly is thirty years of age and the little girl fourteen. She is the daughter of Captain Blair, formerly well known along the Susquehanna as a canal packet Capt. but now proprietor of the Commercial Hotel.—It was agreed between the parties that the marriage should not be consummated, or the secret known for three years; but with that frailty common to the sex which precludes the possibility of their keeping a secret, she told her mother—the mother told the father who was naturally very indignant, and came up here and had a bill rushed through in a few days. This is the way we can do business here in case of an emergency.

Talking about divorces, the Fry case appears to have lost considerable of its interest since the big guns held forth on its merits and demerits. I guess there is rather more said of it abroad than there is here.

I believe I have on several occasions spoken to your readers about certain bills attempted to be bored through here, which are gigantic corporations, the granting of which would confer the most unlimited financial powers upon the corporators. One of these bills is in the keeping of Gen. Duff Green, who, after petitioning memoralising and importuning the Senate to vote for it, had the pleasure (?) of seeing it fall. But he is not the man to say die. He obtained the Hall, and last night actually delivered what purported to be a lecture on the bill, but which, in reality, was more of a recital of the life of Duff Green, in order to show that he was once a great man and for that reason his bill ought to pass. But I fear that his eloquence is like the rose that is "born to blush unseen, and waste its fragrance on the desert air."

Since the beginning of the Session, the following companies have been chartered by the Legislature, and there is no question but that all of them will go into operation at an early day, viz: Bedford Gas Company, Clearfield Gas Company, Towanda Gas Company, Chalton Mills Gas Company, and one or two more, the names of which hav escaped my memory, but I do recollect that all of them are perfect one-horse villages compared with Altoona. Should not this fact stimulate your company to prompt and energetic action?

Last week a bill was before the Senate to increase the salaries of President Judges of the Commonwealth, and the Judges of the Supreme Court. The manner in which some gentlemen plead for the dispensers of justice was almost enough to make one believe that they are shabbily paid at a paltry $2,000 per annum. The bill fell on Saturday.

The appropriation bill has gone through the House, and the Honorable Senators will have a say in it, I presume, in the course of a day or two. A great deal was said about economy and a wasteful expenditure of public money, but when matters came down to a dot, when the vote was taken to reduce the pay from $700 per session to $5 per day, the economical gentlemen were nowhere! Now be it understood that I am not opposed to Legislators being paid, and well paid, too, but I like to see a little consistency, a woeful lack of which becomes apparent when we look back to the last campaign.

Mr. Gregg has introduced a supplement to the Act establishing the Farmer's High School, which asks for an additional appropriation of $30,000 to finish the buildings. I say I am opposed to this—decidedly so. Like the School of Mines, Polytechnic College, Pennsylvania Asylum, &c., the benefits of this institution are sectional—that is all the tax-payers do not share in them. $56,000 have already been expended, and I am really informed that a majority of the pupils there are the sons of professional men, who avail themselves of this method of getting a cheap education, without any intention of ever becoming practical farmers.

As I pen this epistle, there is an exhibition going on in the Hall of Feeble Minded children from the Training School under charge of Dr. Parish. I may also here state that a grand Legislative Ball is going on at Coverly's, at which the wit, wisdom and beauty of the Capitol are shining resplendently. As your correspondent has a plentiful lack of "sponduliclks" and no particular taste for that style of the fine arts, he is not on hand.

During the week an immense number of petitions for the repeal of the Tonnage tax have been presented—some for the passage of the bill introduced by Mr. Schell, and others for an unconditional repeal. A bill has been reported in the House and shows that the friends of the measure, and the opposition are pretty evenly balanced. A further illustration of this fact was apparent to-day, when the entire afternoon was consumed in debating a supplement to the Reading Railroad, which gives it the privilege of connecting with the North Central at Dauphin, an arrangement which would be rather detrimental to the Pennsylvania Company.

Of the petty little acts of incorporation passed I give you no account. The news would not be worth the room it occupied. LOGAN.

MASQUERADERS IN MILWAUKEE.—A great masquerade ball was given in Milwaukee about a week ago. The News of that city, in the course of an article describing it, says: "One gentleman fell in love with his own sister, while another man danced, talked and promenaded with a gentleman in woman's dress three hours, in the vain hope of finding out who the dear creature was. One young man took his mother to the supper, and great was the surprise of both on learning how matters stood. One of our leading merchants gave his ring to a young lady if she would raise her mask that he might see her features, when it was his own sister, who he supposed was at home with the toothache! Two gentlemen got in a warm dispute as to who a certain young lady with a black domino was, and after making a wager of two bottles of champaigne, found out that the young lady was the younger and mischievous brother of the losing party."

A FRIGHTFUL SCENE.—Our correspondent at Lykenstown, informs us of a frightful scene which occurred a few days since at that place. A chain attached to a drift car in the slope of the Lykens Valley coal company, broke whilst the car was running down the plane of the slope at an angle of about 45 degrees, consequently the car ran with a tremendous velocity, that when it arrived at the terminus of the road it was literally broken into splinters. A small lad was in the car at the time the chain broke, and everybody of course expected that it would be utterly impossible to save him alive, but to the astonishment of everybody the lad escaped entirely unharmed. Not a particle of his body was injured in the least, and his first inquiry was "where is my dinner!" which had been in the car wrapt up in a handkerchief.—Har. Tel.

☞ A Tragedy in Wilmington.—A cold blooded murder was perpetrated in Wilmington, Del., on Monday night, upon the person of David Bryant, by Thomas McCoy, a constable.—Bryant it seems, was a sailor, and during his absence from home at sea, McCoy seduced his wife, and hence the difficulty. Bryant was shot by McCoy, and his body kicked out of doors.

PEN AND SCISSORS.

☞ The Standard says its Altoona Reporter is a promising fellow. Our opinion, "peraactly" notice of the Captain of the Ker.

☞ Commissioner ——— called chamomile" notice of the Captain of the Ker.

☞ Fresh peas from Florida are announced in the New York market.

☞ Slightly personal—the controversy between the Standard and Register. The code of honor adopted at the Editorial Convention has not reached or came in force in the "town over-the-hill" yet.

☞ Two members of one family in Bureau, Illinois, (a child and an old lady,) suffering from an inflamation of the eyes, were almost simultaneously struck blind by the bursting of the eye balls, last week.

☞ Planters in Texas are still busy putting in the seed. Corn planting has a good deal of it, already been done. But little cotton is yet planted. The wheat crops are giving good promise of abundance in May. There was more wheat raised in Texas last year than there was a market for.

☞ Orlando F. Parsons, after trying in vian to take his life by large doses of morphine and strychnine, ended his existence in Baltimore on the 1st, by shooting himself. He had been a clerk in the New York post-office—threw up the situation for a promised one under Government at, Washington, was disappointed, sought for employment in Baltimore unsuccessfully, and being without means determined to die before he contracted debt.

LITTLE BOY DIED ON THE MOUNTAIN.—A small boy, four years of age, named John Woodburn, whose parents reside about three miles south of Shippensburg, wandered away from home on last Thursday morning. The family and a large number of neighbors commenced searching for him, but did not find him until Saturday, when he was discovered dead, about ten miles from home, on the South Mountain. A dog belonging to the family accompanied the child, and was found lying beside the dead body.

☞ A. M. Skillings, a man of gigantic corpulency, died in New York on the 19th inst.—He was a native of Portland, Maine, was 39 years old, had kept a fish and oyster shop in New York for fourteen years, and weighed 678 pounds! His health was generally very good, though his size was such that he was able to walk but a short distance at a time. A post mortem examination showed that most of the internal organs were healthy, but evidences of intemperance were apparent. The liver weighed 16½ pounds, and the heart 2 lbs. 6 oz. The fat on his abdomen was 10 inches in depth, and on the chest 7 inches.

CATAGORICAL.—The New Bedford Mercury says:—A very singular and unrivalled fact, we believe, is stated to us us by a friend. He has his horses in a warm stable, where they are well cared for. Two strange cats of the vicinity, resolved to share these good quarters with the larger quadrupeds, are in the habit of coming into the barn and taking their naps on the backs of the horses. In mild weather they sleep each one on one of the horses, but in very cold nights the two have been found together safely reposing on the back of one of the horses, perfectly content and not disturbing the true occupants of the stable. Thus they secured warmth and comfort.

☞ Our Army in Utah is costing the country at the rate of nearly five millions of dollars per annum, and is doing no good whatever. It does not even cause Federal authority to be respected. It does not vindicate a single law.—Brigham Young is still monarch of the valley. The Governor sent out to supersede him as a cypher. The Indians are troublesome as they always have been. The contractors in the transport service are making enormous fortunes, and the Mormons find Camp Floyd a market which is a mine of coined gold to them. And here is the sum total of our Utah expedition.—The Federal Judges, unable to enforce the laws, are about to return home.

☞ The Baltimore Sun, on the Sickles case, says:—"No married woman can be approached by any man with undue professions of regard, or of affection, but with an instinctive knowledge of his design. Not the slightest impropriety, not the least indelicacy in word or deed, can be thrust upon her observation without startling her honor and putting her on guard. She is at once warned and armed; she has a counsellor ever at her side to direct her, and a champion to defend her—in a true and honorable husband. Hence the law esteems her guilt at least equal to that of the most seductive and designing invader of her honor, when she falls. The married woman is arrayed in the very panoply of virtue and cannot be surprised. She can hardly be said to fall—she steps aside of her own free will and sing deliberately."

☞ "Jenkins" writes us from Washington that a Mrs. P——, of New York, the wife of a linseed oil manufacturer, wore to the Napier ball diamonds valued at $100,000, and lace worth $11,000. Her heavy tiara and necklace were wholly composed of diamonds, and her breast plate was of diamond leaves. She stood knee deep"—Jenkins' elegant expression—in old chench lace—an Italian fabric of exceeding delicacy, the secrets of the manufacture of which has long been lost. It fell over blue silk from her knees to her feet, and also in graceful folds over her bosom. The lady sat during the whole of the evening by a window opening from a side room into the dancing hall, in a position where the light could fall favorably upon her opulence. But she did not dare to enter the crowd, for fear that the lace might be injured, or the diamonds ravished from her person.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR!
PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD.
COMPOUNDED ENTIRELY FROM GUMS.

Is one of the best Purgative and Liver Medicines before the public. It acts as a Cathartic, milder and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is a Liver Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the liver, to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus acting on both organs effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It cleanses the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The LIVER is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well the powers of the system are in health, almost entirely are fully developed. The action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach, digestion depends on the healthy such is at fault, the bowels are at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence. The Liver—having ceased to do of that organ, one of the consequence. The Liver—having ceased to do study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and satisfy the most intelligent to prove that it is a perfect Restorative; but read the circular and you cease doubt; read also the following.

These Gums remove all morbid matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, PURIFYING THE blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

BILIOUS ATTACKS are CERTAINLY PREVENTED by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach from rising and souring. Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures COSTIVENESS.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia. One dose of two teaspoonsful will always relieve SICK HEADACHE.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure. Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while One dose often repeated is a sure cure for CHOLIC or CHOLERA MORBUS, and a preventive of CROUP.

☞ Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞ One bottle taken for JAUNDICE removes all disease from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes the food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in children: there is no remedy in the world, as it is, by exciting the absorbents surer, safer, or speedier. coming in contact with the medicine.

A few bottles cures Dropsy and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious type. We take pleasure in recommending it as a preventive for Fever and Ague, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony to its favor.

☞ Mix Water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR

IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is really working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures not by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a DISEASED LIVER.

MORE THAN 500,000 BOTTLES SOLD IN THE NEW ENGLAND STATES IN ONE YEAR.

The Restorative of Prof. O. J. Wood for Restoring hair perfectly and permanently, has never yet had a rival, whereas others volumes might be given from all parts of the world and from the most intelligent to prove that it is a perfect Restorative; but read the circular and you cease doubt; read also the following.

☞ The Hair.—People have for centuries been afflicted with bald heads and the only remedy, heretofore known, has been those abominable wigs. By a recent discovery of Professor Wood these articles are being fast dispensed with, but a great many persons still patronize them, because they have been so often imposed upon by Hair Tonics of different kinds. To all such persons we earnestly make the request, that they will try once again, for in Wood's Restorative there is no such thing as fail. We have known a lady who was bald, who used the article a short time, and her head is now covered completely with the finest and most beautiful curls imaginable. We know of numerous cases where hair was rapidly falling out, which it restored in greater perfection than it ever had been before.

It is also without doubt one of the best articles for curing the hair in good condition, making it soft and glossy, removing dandruff, and has proved itself the greatest remedy to all the ills that hair is heir to.

It is the duty of every one to improve their personal appearance though some may differ in regard to the way of doing it; but every one will admit that a beautiful head of hair, either in man or woman, is an object much to be desired, and there are no means that should be left untried to obtain such a consideration.—Wagnar's Advocate, Feb. 15.

Coshocton, Ohio, Nov. 17, 1858.

O. J. WOOD & CO.—Gents: As I have been engaged in selling your Hair Restorative the last season for one of your local agents (R. M. Hackinson,) and having experienced the beneficial effects of it myself, I would like to obtain an agency for the State of Ohio or some State in the West, should you wish to make such an arrangement. I am convinced there is nothing equal to it in the United States for restoring the hair. I have been engaged in the hair business for several years, and have sold various preparations for the hair, but have found nothing that restores the secretive organs or invigorates the scalp as well as yours, being fully convinced that your restorative is what you represent it to be, I would like to engage in the sale of it, for I am satisfied it must sell. Yours truly,

S. T. STOCKMAN.

PROF. O. J. WOOD & CO.—Gents: Having realized the good effects of your Hair Restorative, I wish to state that finding my hair growing thin, as well as gray, I was induced from what I read and heard, to try the article prepared by you, to promote its growth and change it to color as it was in youth, both of which it has effected completely. In the operation I have used nearly three bottles.

Yours &c., JAMES FRANCIS.

LOCAL ITEMS.

ROBBERY AT HOLLIDAYSBURG.—We learn from the Hollidaysburg papers that an old offender, named Johnston McKee, who has been twice away to the penitentiary, has been at his old tricks again. It appears that an agent for a Philadelphia liquor house, named Kirkeslager, came to Hollidaysburg, a few days since, and put up at the "Logan House." On Friday evening week he indulged a little too freely and became somewhat unruly, whereupon Corporal Keefer, of the "Logan House," turned him out. He was then taken in hand by a couple of young men who conducted him to the Juniata Hotel, a rather questionable house, in which McKee acted as bar-keeper. Lodging for the intoxicated man being granted, McKee conducted him to bed. Although the man was drunk, he still had his wits about him, and was rather suspicious of the company he had got into. There was no lock on the door of the room, and he concluded to lay awake. Shortly after he had been put to bed, a couple of men came into his room and after examining around him for a short time, thought him asleep. Kirkeslager only feigning sleep, however, for fear they would murder him. They searched his pockets until they found the key of his carpet sack after which they went down stairs and searched it, but found nothing of value save a revolver. They then came up stairs again and proceeded to rifle his pockets of his pocket-book, containing some $60 or $70. On obtaining this they went down stairs again; but the stranger was afraid to get up or make a noise. He laid awake until daylight, when he was called up, as he had expressed his desire to take the morning train. Instead of taking the train, however, he took himself to a justice's office and entered a complaint against Johnston McKee and an accomplice named Edward McCabe. They were arrested and lodged in jail. On searching the premises, a portion of the money was found in an outhouse.

SLEEPING CARS.—Two new sleeping cars were placed upon the Pennsylvania Rail Road last week, and we learn that another will be added about the 14th inst. This will complete the complement of one sleeping car to each of the Express and Fast Line trains. With these inducements to through passengers, we may expect to find the travel over this, now the best managed road in the country, greatly augmented. All the modern improvements which can in any way tend to the safety and comfort of passengers are immediately adopted by the managers of the Pennsylvania Rail Road Company; and therefore it is not to be wondered at that a great portion of the travel is being gradually drawn to this route. The convenience of the sleeping car are well known to those who have had the pleasure of riding in them, and it will be sought by all through travelers.

NOT GOING WEST.—Report said, some time ago, that G. W. Fisher, the Artist, was about to leave Hollidaysburg and locate in Pittsburgh, but the rumor is now contradicted, and he may still be found at his old stand, in the Diamond, Hollidaysburg, where he will be pleased to wait upon his numerous friends and all those who wish to get good pictures. His reputation as an artist stands A No. 1. Persons wishing a fancy picture will be amply repaid for the time spent in going to and returning from Hollidaysburg, to get one of Fisher, as no other ambrotypist in the country can compete with him in point of beauty, richness and durability. Pictures taken from 25 cents up to $25. No picture costing less than $1 can be warranted not to fade. Photographs of all sizes, up to life-size, taken and painted in oil or water colors.

PREVENTION BETTER THAN A CURE.—Dr. Keyser at his medicine store, in Pittsburg, prepares a medicine for coughs and colds, to which he invites the attention of the public. It is called PECTORAL SYRUP, and will cure all those incipient cases of lung and bronchical difficult, that lead to consumption in its developed form. He does not pretend that it will cure deep seated ulcers in the lungs, or heal a half destroyed lung; but in the beginning of the disease, it will allay inflamation, cure the cough, and stay the progress of the disease. One or two spoonfuls of Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup has often cured a violent cough of months duration. What has been done, can be done again; so cure your coughs, by taking Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup, for sale at G. W. Kessler's, Altoona.

Y. M. C. ASSOCIATION.—We have frequently been urged to suggest the formation of a Young Men's Christian Association in this place. We can conceive of nothing which would be likely to result in more lasting good to the young men of Altoona than such an Association, and we know of no place where there are so many young men who would be likely to attend such meetings. In all other places where such associations have been formed they have been productive of very beneficial results, and are constantly increasing in numbers of members. We suggest that a meeting be called at some convenient place as early as possible, and that a notice of the meeting be read from the pulpits of the various churches, on Sabbath next.

NOTICE.—A Meeting will be held in the Baptist Church of this place on Tuesday evening next (15th) at 7 o'clock, to form a Union Sabbath School Association. This measure has been warmly recommended by the late National Sunday School Convention, held in Philadelphia.—Similar Associations have been and are being formed over the Country. Shall we be left lagging behind? All the Ministers, Superintendents, Teachers, and others, who feel interested in the noble cause of religious training for the young; and especially in the way of Sabbath School instruction, are invited to attend; and their hearty co-operation is solicited.

LECTURE.—Rev. H. S. Snyder, late Missionary in Kansas, will lecture in the United Brethren Church, in this place, on this (Thursday) evening, on Missionary life in Kansas during the last four years, with an account of the sacking of Lawrence, &c. The public generally are respectfully invited to attend.

THE BALL.—We neglected last week, to notice the "Military and Fancy Dress Ball," got up under the auspices of Winebago Tribe No. 86, I. O. R. M. which came off in Keystone Hall on the evening of the 22d ult. The evening was propitious and the Hall was crowded—some fifty couple being in attendance. Every one present seemed desirous of having a gay time, and the necessary arrangements to that effect being perfect, everything went 'merry as a marriage-bell.' At 11 o'clock there was a short intermission to partake of a supper served up at the Altoona House, by those prince's of landlords and good fellows, Messrs. Woods & Nightwine, and was emphatically a most suberb one. Everything that the most fastidious epicure could have desired was present in abundant profusion.—Messrs. W. & N. have earned for their house an enviable reputation by the arrangements on this occasion. After supper, dancing was resumed and continued without intermission until half-past 4 o'clock in the morning. During the whole evening good humor wreathed every face in smiles, and not a single incident occurred to mar the harmony and good feeling which characterized the occasion.

COMPLIMENTARY.—At a regular Council of Winebago Tribe, kindled on the 5th Sleep of the 1st Sun, Worm Moon, 5619, it was unanimously

Resolved, That the thanks of the Council be tendered Col. John Woods, the gentlemanly host of the Altoona House, for the sumptuous repast served up on the evening of the 22d ult., the occasion of the "Military and Citizens Fancy Dress Ball," and also to the members of the Newry Band for the faithful manner in which they served us on that evening.

Resolved, That the above be published in the Altoona Tribune. W. M. ALLISON, S.
W. A. ADAMS, C. of R.

SHALL WE HAVE THE ENGINE?—At a meeting of the citizens of Altoona, held at Keystone Hall, on Saturday evening March 5th, to take into consideration the propriety of purchasing a fire engine, on motion, John Shoemaker was called to the chair, and J. E. Burchinell appointed Secretary.

The object of the meeting was stated by the Chairman. On motion of Wm. Boyden, a committee of two from each Ward, viz: Messrs. Jno. Shoemaker and Jacob Wagner, North Ward; A. C. Smyth and J. L. Ickes, East Ward; James Lowther and C. J. Mann, West Ward, were appointed to solicit subscriptions for the purpose of purchasing a Fire Engine.

On motion of A. Maxwell, the committe were instructed to wait upon Thos. A. Scott, Esq., and endeavor to procure a location for an engine house between the main and branch tracks of the railroad.

On motion adjourned, to meet at the call of the committee.

LEGAL AND ILLEGAL LOTTERIES.—The Easton (Maryland) Star, in a notice of the celebrated lottery firm of Swann & Co., now Woop, EDDY & Co., of Augusta, Ga., speaks of these great lottery operators in terms of just commendation, No complaints have ever been made against these gentlemen by any of the public havin g dealings with them. They have occasionally been the object of hostility of interested parties, who, unable to compete with them honorably, have resorted to dishonorable means to injure their business. The public, having more confidence in their integrity than they happen to repose in their opponents, continue to send their weekly instalments of $10, $5, $2 50, and receive in return a share in their magnificient lotteries, which pays them sometimes a fortune, and hardly ever fails to re-imburse them for their outlay. Address Wood, Eddy & Co., Wilmington, Delaware, or Augusta Georgia.

A FAST RUN.—On Wednesday last, the Mail Train, Col. Crane, Conductor, and Charley Fleck, engineer, left this Station at 2 o'clock, P. M. (being some 2 hours and 10 minutes behind time) and arrived in Harrisburg at 6.37, only 58 minutes behind time at that point, thus making up one hour and thirty minutes of the lost time. The run between this place and Huntingdon, some 35 miles, was made in 58 minutes, including eight stops. Deducting two minutes for each stop, which is a very short allowance, the run was made in 38 minutes—almost a mile a minute. This we consider about as fast as we would wish to ride, and about as fast as any time made on the road lately, if not a little ahead. Behind an Engineer like Charley, under the direction of Col. Crane, all was safe, however, as we would have felt had we been aboard.

SERIOUS CHARGE.—We learn from the Standard of last week, that a man whose name is not given was committed to prison on Tuesday of last week charged with the monstrous crime of ravishment. The prisoner, in connection with some fifteen or twenty others, committed the horrid crime of ravishing a woman at Ironsville, in the lower end of this county, on Sunday evening last. The balance of the party have been arrested and those of them who could not procure bail were sent to jail.

☞ The Iron City College, Pittsburgh, Pa., has done more in three years to popularize the science of accounts, than any other institution in the country. Advertises the most extensively—pays the most liberal salaries—employs the best talent—gives the most thorough and practical education to graduates, and is rewarded by having the largest institution of the kind, in the Union, numbering at this time upwards of 350 students.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED.—At the Argument Court held in Hollidaysburg last week, the motion for a new trial in the case of Bunn vs. Ferre—an action of ejectment for a house and lot of ground in this place—in which the verdict at last term was for Deft. was argued by Hall for the motion and Hofius against it. The Court set the verdict aside and granted a new trial.

APPOINTED.—We are pleased to learn that our agreeable friend, William Mann, Esq., has received the appointment of conductor of one of the sleeping cars on the Pa. R. R. Mr. Mann is exactly suited to the station assigned him, and we predict he will be one of the most popular and efficient conductors on the Road.

SCOTT LEGION OF CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA.—Agreeably to adjournment the surviving soldiers of the Mexican war, residing in Blair and the adjoining counties, met at the Logan House, Hollidaysburg, on Saturday, March 5th, D. H. Hofius, 2d Pa. Volunteers, in the chair. In the absence of the Secretary, Wm. G. Murry, 11th Inf'y was appointed Secretary. The committee appointed at the former meeting to prepare a constitution and byelaws for the government of the Legion, submitted, through John McKeage of the Voltigeurs, constitution and bye-laws, which were read, and, on motion, laid on the table until the next meeting.

On motion it was resolved that when we adjourn it shall be to meet on Saturday, April 2d, in the Armory of the Hollidaysburg Fencibles, at 8 o'clock p. m., and that all the surviving soldiers of the Mexican war, neither volunteers, regulars or marines, who served in said war and received an honorable discharge, are hereby cordially invited to attend an participate in the permanent organization of the Legion.

On motion adjourned.

D. H. HOFIUS, President.
W. G. MURRAY, Sec'y.

SHOCKING AFFAIR.—We are informed by an eye-witness, that, on Sunday last, as a little girl, of about ten or twelve years of age, (daughter of Mr. Weston, of Ironsville,) was playing with fire, in company with several other children, on the hill above the town, her clothes caught fire, and she became so much alarmed that she started to run home; which of course, increased the fire, and ere she reached the foot of the hill, she was entirely enveloped in the devouring element, and so shockingly burned that she appeared to have lost her senses. Our informant was of the opinion that death would soon relieve the little creature from her horrible sufferings. —Tyrone Star.

VISITED US.—On Saturday evening week we had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Mr. Fred. E. Foster, of the Pittsburgh True Press, who paid us a pop visit while sojourning for the night at the "Logan House." Like most knights of the quill, we found him an affable gentleman, in whose society we could while away a few hours very pleasantly. He looked a little fatigued, the cause of which he assigned to the fact that he was just returning from a wedding tour, (not his own—we wonder it wasn't.) The best advice we can give you Fred, is to take your wife with you the next time. You won't mind the fatigue then.

COUNTY APPEAL.—From an advertisement of the County Commissioners, published in the Hollidaysburg papers, we learn that the County appeal, for Altoona, will be held in the office of Jacob Good Esq., on Friday the 8th day of April next, and for Logan township at the house of Mrs. Huff, in Loudonsville, on Saturday, April 9th.

CHANGE OF RESIDENCE.—We give this early notice to those of our subscribers who purpose changing their places of residence on the first of April, in order that they may inform us of their intended locality, and have the address of their papers changed accordingly.

PROTRACTED MEETING.—Rev. W. B. Dick, preacher in charge of the United Brethren church, in this place, informs us that he will commence a protracted meeting in that church on Sunday March 13th. The first quarterly meeting will be held on Sunday the 19th inst.

NOTICE.—A Sermon will, by request, be preached on Sabbath next, at 11 o'clock A. M., in the Presbyterian Church of this place, from I Cor. xiii: 13. "And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these; but the greatest of these is charty.

ACCIDENT.—The Branch train between this place and Hollidaysburg, jumped the track, about two miles from this place, on Tuesday last. The cars were somewhat wrecked, and a few persons slightly bruised.

Dalley's Magical Pain Extractor.

In all diseases inflammation more or less predominates—now to allay inflammation strikes at the root of disease—hence an immediate cure.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR,
and nothing else, will allay inflammation at once, and make a certain cure.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR
will cure the following among a great catalogue of diseases: Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Chafes, Sore Nipples, Corns, Bunions, Bruises, Sprains, Stings, Poison, Chilblains, Piles, Scrofula, Ulcers, Sore Sores, Felons, Ear Aches, Piles, Sore Eyes, Gout, Swellings, Rheumatism, Scald Head, Salt Rheum, Baldness, Erysipelas, Ringworm, Barbers' Itch, Small Pox, Measles, Rash, &c., &c.

To some it may appear incredulous that so many diseases should be reached by one article; such an idea will vanish when reflection points to the fact, that the salve is a combination of ingredients, each and every one applying a perfect antidote to its opposite disorder.

DALLEY'S MAGICAL PAIN EXTRACTOR
In its effects is magical, because the time is so short between disease and a permanent cure; and it is an extractor, as it draws all disease out of the affected part, leaving nature as perfect as before the injury. It is scarcely necessary to say that no house, work-shop, or manufactory should be one moment without it.

No Pain Extractor is genuine unless the box has upon it a steel plate engraving, with the name of Henry Dalley, Manufacturer.

THE CELEBRATED HOLLAND REMEDY FOR

DYSPEPSIA,
DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS,
LIVER COMPLAINT,
WEAKNESS OF ANY KIND
FEVER AND AGUE,

And the various affections consequent upon a disordered STOMACH OR LIVER,

Such as Indigestion, Acidity of the Stomach, Colicky Pains, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Despondency, Costiveness, Blind and Bleeding Piles. In all Nervous, Rheumatic and Neuralgic Affections, it has in numerous instances proved highly beneficial, and in others effected a decided cure.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared on strictly scientific principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Professor, Boerhave: Because of its great success in the most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here and there on r the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medical virtues must be acknowledged.

It is particularly recommended to those persons whose constitutions may have been impaired by the continuous use of ardent spirits, or other forms of dissipation. Generally instantaneous in effect, it finds its way directly to the seat of life, thrilling and quickening every nerve, raising up the drooping spirit, and, in fact, infusing new health and vigor in the system.

CAUTION.—The great popularity of this delightful Arcana has induced many imitations, which the public should guard against purchasing. Be not persuaded to buy anything else until you have given Boerhave's Holland Bitters a fair trial. One bottle will convince you how infinitely superior it is to all these imitations.

THE GUNMAKER OF MOSCOW.

A Tale of the Empire under Peter the Great.

CHAPTER I.

The [illegible] we open our story is mid winter, and towards the close of the seventeenth century. Russia is the scene.

In the suburbs of Moscow, and very near the river Moskwa, stood an humble cot, which betrayed by the neatness of arrangement and show of taste that more than made up for its smallness of size. Back of the cot was an artizan's shop, and other out-buildings. This shop was devoted to the manufacture of fire arms, mostly. Some swords, and other edged weapons, were made here upon special application.

The master of this tenement was the hero of our tale, Ruric Nevel. We find him standing by his forge, watching the white smoke as it curled up towards the throat of the chimney.—He was a young man, not over three-and possessed a frame of more than ordinary symmetry and muscular development. He was not large—not above a medium size—but a single glance at the swelling chest, the broad shoulders, and the sinewy ridges of the bare arms, told at once that he was a master of great physical power. His father had been killed it the late war with the Turks, and the son, leaving his mother with a sufficiency of sustenance went to Spain soon after the bereavement. There he found work in the most noted armories; and now, well versed in the trade, he had returned to his native city to follow his calling, and support his mother.

Near by stood a boy—Paul Peepoff—a bright, intelligent lad, some fifteen years of age, who had bound himself to the gunmaker for the purpose of learning the art.

Claudia Nevel, Ruric's mother, was a noble looking woman, and the light of her still handsome countenance was never brighter than when gazing upon her boy. She had a thankful, loving heart, and a prayerful, hopeful soul.

"It is snowing again, faster than ever," remarked Paul, as he took his seat at the supper-table, in company with the others.

"Ah," returned Ruric, resting his knife a few moments while he bent his ear to listen to the voice of the storm. "I had hoped 'twould snow no more for the present. The snow is deep enough now. And how it blows!"

"Never mind," spoke the dame, in a trustful, easy tone, "it must storm when it listeth, and we can only thank God that we have shelter, and pray for those who have none."

"Amen!" responded Ruric, fervently.

The meal was at length eaten, and the table set back, and shortly afterwards Paul retired to his bed.

Ruric drew his chair close up to the fire-place, and leaning against the jam he bowed his head in absorbing thought. This had become a habit with him of late. His mother having observed these fits of abstraction, became uneasy and pressed Ruric to tell her what it was over which he was so constantly and so moodily brooding. Being thus urged, Ruric confessed that it was of Rosalind Valdai (the orphan daughter of a nobleman, and now the ward of Olga, the powerful and haughty Duke of Tula) he was thinking. Ruric's father, and the father of Rosalind, had been comrades in arms in their youth, and their children had been playmates. But when the elder Nevel was slain in battle, Ruric was yet a boy, and the widow and her son remained poor and obscure; while Valdai, more fortunate, had risen to a high rank, and dying, left Rosalind a title and a fortune.

The young people, however, had not forgotten each other. Ruric loved Rosalind with all the fervor of his being, and he felt assured that Rosalind returned his love. As he and his mother sat debating the matter on that stormy night, a loud knock upon the outer door startled them.

"Is there any one here?" the gunmaker asked, as he opened the door, bowing his head and shielding his eyes from the driving snow with one hand.

"Yes," returned a voice from the Stygian darkness. "In God's name let me in, or I shall perish."

"Then follow quickly," said Ruric. "Here—give me your hand. There—now come."

The youth found the thickly-gloved hand—gloved with the softest fur—and having led the invisible applicant into the hall he closed the door, and then led the way to the kitchen.—Without speaking, Ruric turned and gazed upon the new-comer. The stranger, who was equally desirous of ascertaining what manner of man Ruric was, was a monk—and habited something like one of the Black monks of St. Michael.—He was of medium hight, and possessed a rotundity of person which was comical to behold.

At length, after warming himself by the fire, the guest asked if he could be accommodated with some sleeping-place, and being answered in the affirmative, Ruric showed him to a chamber and then retired himself.

The next morning, after breakfast, the Monk went with Ruric to his shop, and examined with much interest the various weapons therein.—Ruric questioned him closely as to whether he had ever met him before, but the Monk replied evasively, and after saying that in case the gunmaker should ever, in any great emergency, need a friend, that he might apply to him, he took his leave.

Towards the middle of the afternoon, just as Ruric had finished tempering some parts of a gun-lock, the back door of his shop was opened, and two men entered. They were young men, dressed in costly furs, and both of them stout and good-looking. The gunmaker recognized them as the Count Conrad Damonoff and his friend Stephen Urzen.

"I think I speak with Ruric Nevel," said the Count, moving forward.

"You do," returned Ruric, not at all surprised by the visit, since people of all classes were in the habit of calling at his place to order arms.

"You are acquainted with the lady Rosalind Valdai?" he said.

"I am," answered Ruric, now beginning to wonder.

"Well, sir," resumed Damonoff, with much haughtiness, "perhaps my business can be quickly and satisfactorily settled. It is my desire to make the Lady Rosalind my wife."

Ruric Nevel started at these words, and he pressed his hands to hide their tremulousness. But he was not long debating upon an answer.

"And why have you come to me with this information, sir?" he asked.

"Ruric Nevel, you shall not say that I did not make myself fully understood, and hence I will explain." The Count spoke this as speaks a man who feels that he is doing a very condescending thing, and in the same tone he proceeded: "The Lady Rosalind is of noble parentage and very wealthy. My own station and wealth are equal with hers. I love her, and must have her for my wife. I have been to see the noble Duke, her guardian, and he objects not to my suit. But he informed me that there was one impediment, and that was her love for you. He knows full well—as I know, and as all must know—that she could never become your wife; but yet he is anxious not to interfere too much against her inclinations. So a simple denial from you, to the effect that you can never claim her hand, is all that is necessary. I have a paper here all drawn up, and all that I require is simply your signature. Here—it is only a plain, simple avowal on your part that you have no hopes nor thoughts of seeking the hand of the lady in marriage."

As the Count spake he drew a paper from the bosom of his marten doublet, and having opened it he handed it towards the gunmaker. But Ruric took it not. He drew back and gazed the visitor sternly in the face.

"Sir Count," he said, calmly and firmly, "you have plainly stated your proposition, and I will as plainly answer—I cannot sign it—never."

"Ha!" gasped Damonoff, in quick passion.—"Do you refuse?"

"Most flatly."

"But you will sign it!" hissed Damonoff, turning pale with rage. "Here it is—sign!—If you would live—sign!"

"Perhaps he cannot write," suggested Urzen, contemptuously.

"Then he may make his mark," rejoined the Count, in the same contemptuous tone.

"It might not require much more urging to induce me to make my mark in a manner not at all agreeable to you, sir," the youth retorted, with his teeth now set, and the dark veins upon his brow starting more plainly out. "Do you seek a quarrel with me?"

"Seek?—I seek what I will have. Will you sign?"

"Once more—No!"

"Then, by heavens, you shall know what it is to thwart such as me! How's that?"

As these words passed from the Count's lips in a low, hissing whisper, he aimed a blow with his fist at Ruric's head. The gunmaker had not dreamed of such a dastardly act, and he was not prepared for it. Yet he dodged it, and as the Count drew back Ruric dealt him a blow upon the brow that felled him to the floor like a dead ox.

"Beware, Stephen Urzen!" he whispered to the Count's companion, as that individual made a movement as though he would come forward. "I am not myself now, and you are safest where you are."

The man thus addressed viewed the gunmaker a few moments, and he seemed to conclude that he had better avoid a personal encounter.

Conrad Damonoff slowly rose to his feet, and gazed into his antagonist's face a few moments in silence. His own face was deathly pale, and his whole frame quivered.

"Ruric Nevel," he said, in a hissing, maddened tone, "you will hear from me. I can overlook your plebeian stock."

And with this he turned away.

"Paul," said the gunmaker, turning to his boy, after the men had gone, "not a word of this to my mother. Be sure."

On the following morning, as Ruric was preparing for breakfast, he saw Olga, the Duke, pass by, and strike off into the Borodino road. Now, thought he, is the time to call on Rosalind; and as soon as he had eated his breakfast he prepared for the visit. He dressed well, and no man in Moscow had a nobler look when the dust of toil was removed from his brow and garb.

He took a horse and sledge, and started off for the Kremlin, within which the duke resided.

In one of the sumptuously furnished apartments of the palace of the Duke of Tula sat Rosalind Valdai. She was a beautiful girl; molded in perfect form, with the full flush of health and vigor, and possessing a face of peculiar sweetness and intelligence. She was only nineteen years of age, and she had been ten years an orphan. There was nothing of the aristocrat in her look—nothing proud, nothing haughty; but gentleness and love were the true elements of her soul.

"How now, Zenobie?" asked Rosalind as her waiting-maid entered.

"There is a gentleman below who would see you," the girl replied.

"Then tell him I cannot see him," said Rosalind, trembling.

"But it is Ruric Nevel, my mistress."

"Ruric!" exclaimed the fair maiden, starting up, while the rich blood mounted to her brow and temples. "Oh, I am so glad he has come. My prayers are surely answered. Lead him hither Zenobie."

The girl departed, and ere long afterwards Ruric entered the apartment. He walked quickly to where Rosalind had arisen to her feet, and taking one of her hands in both his own he spoke. But the emotions of his soul became calm at length, and then he received Rosalind's promise that she would never permit her hand to be disposed of to another by the Duke of Tula. Ruric informed her of the visit of Count Damonoff to his shop, its purposes and the result. Rosalind was astonished and alarmed. Still, she could not believe that the Duke meant to bestow her hand upon Damonoff. The Duke owed him money, she said, and might perhaps be playing with the Count.

Ruric started as a new suspicion flashed upon him. Had the Duke sent Damonoff upon that mission on purpose to get him into a quarrel, "Aye," thought the youth to himself, "The Duke knows that I have taught the sword-play, and he knows that the Count would be no match for me. So he thinks in this subtle manner to make me an instrument for ridding him of a plague." But the youth was careful not to let Rosalind know of this. He thought she would be too unhappy if she knew that a duel was likely to come off between himself and the count.

After some minutes of comparative silence, Ruric took leave of Rosalind, and was soon in the open court. Here he entered his sledge, and then drove to the barricks in the Khitagorod, where he inquired for a young friend named Orsa, a lieutenant of the guard. The officer was quickly found, and as he met Ruric his salutation was warm and cordial. After the first friendly greetings had passed, Ruric remarked, "I may have a meeting with Conrad Count Damonoff. He has sought a quarrel—insulted me grossly—aimed a blow at my head—and I knocked him down. You can judge as well as I what the result must be."

"Most surely he will challenge you," cried the officer, excitedly.

"So I think," resumed Ruric, calmly. "And now you will serve me in the event?"

"With pleasure."

And thereupon Ruric related all that had occurred at the time of the Count's visit to his shop, and then took his leave.

He reached his home just as his mother was spreading the board for dinner. He often went away on business, and she thought not of asking him any questions.

On questioning Paul, in the shop, in the afternoon, Ruric, to his great surprise, learned that the Black monk had been there during his absence, to purchase a dagger; that he had drawn out of the boy a minute account of the visit of Urzen and Damanoff, and that he seemed to be much pleased with Ruric's conduct. As they were talking, Urzen called and presented a challenge from the Count. Ruric at once referred him to his friend, and he took his leave.

That evening, about eight o'clock, a sledge drove up to Ruric's door, and young Orsa entered the house. He called Ruric aside, and informed him that the arrangements had all been made.

"Damonoff is in a hurry," he said, "and we have appointed the meeting at ten o'clock tomorrow forenoon. It will take place at the bend of the river just beyond the Viska Hill."

"And the weapons?" asked Ruric.

"Swords," returned Orsa. "The Count will bring his own, and he gives you the privilege of selecting such a one as you choose."

"I thank you, Orsa, for your kindness thus far, and you may rest assured that I shall be prompt."

"Suppose I call here in the morning for you?" suggested the visitor.

"I should be pleased to have you do so," the gunmaker said; and thus it was arranged.

On the following morning Ruric was up betimes, and at the breakfast table not a word of the one all-absorbing theme was uttered. After the meal was finished the gunmaker went out to his shop, and took down from one of the closets a long leathern case, in which were two swords. They were Toledo blades, and of most exquisite workmanship and finish. Ruric took out the heaviest one, which was a two-edged weapon, with a cross hilt of heavily gilded metal. He placed the point upon the floor, and then, [illegible] the blade till the pommel touched the point. The lithe steel sprang back to its place with a sharp clang, and the texture was not started. Then he struck the flat of the blade upon the anvil with great force. The ring was sharp and clear, and the weapon remained unharmed.

"By St. Michael," said the gunmaker to the boy, "Moscow does not contain another blade like that. Damascus never saw a better."

"I think you are right, my master," the boy returned, who had beheld the trial of the blade with unbounded admiration. "But," he added, "could you not temper a blade like that?"

"Perhaps, if I had the steel. But I have it not. The steel of these two blades came from India, and was originally in one weapon—a ponderous, two-handed affair, belonging to a Bengal chieftain. The metal possesses all the hardness of the finest razor, with the elasticity of the most subtle spring. My old master at Toledo gave me these as a memento. Were I to mention the sum of money he was once offered for the largest one, you would hardly credit it."

After this Ruric gave Paul a few directions about the work, promising to be back before night. Just then Orsa drove up to the door.

Ruric was ready. His mother was in the kitchen. He went to her with a smile upon his face. He put his arms about her and drew her to his bosom.

"God bless you, my mother. I shall come back." He said this, and then he kissed her. He dared stop to speak no more, but opened the door and passed out.

"Have you a good weapon?" asked Orsa, as the horses started on.

"I have," Ruric said, quietly; "and one which has stood more tests than most swords will bear." And after some further remarks he related the peculiar circumstances attending the making of the sword, and his possession of it.

At length they struck upon the river, and in half an hour more they reached the appointed spot. The day was beautiful. They had been upon the ground but a few minutes when the other party came in sight around the bend of the river. The monk was there also.

As soon as the Count and his second and surgeon had arrived, and the horses had been secured, the lieutenant proposed that they should repair to an old building, which was close at hand.

"Aye," added Damonoff. "Let us have this business done, for I would be back to dinner. I dine with Olga to-day, and a fair maiden awaits my coming."

"Notice him not," whispered Orsa, who walked close by Ruric's side. "This is one of his chief points when engaged in an affair of this kind. He hopes to get you angry, and so unhinge your nerves."

"Never fear," answered the gunmaker.

The party halted when they reached the interior of the rough structure, and the Count threw off his pelisse and drew his sword. Ruric followed his example.

"Sir Count," the latter said, as he moved a step forward, "are we commence this work I wish all present to understand distinctly how I stand. You have sought this quarrel from the first. Without the least provocation from me you have insulted me most grossly, and this is the climax. So, before God and man, be the result upon your own head."

"Out, lying knave——"

"Hold!" cried the surgeon, laying his hand heavily on the Count's arm. "You have no right to speak thus, for you lower yourself when you do it. If you have come to fight, do so honorably."

An angry reply was upon Damonoff's lips, but he did not speak it. He turned to his antagonist and said—

"Will you measure weapons, sir? Mine may be a mite the longest. I seek no advantage; and I have one here of the same length and weight as my own if you wish it."

"I am well satisfied as it is," replied Ruric. "Then take your ground. Are you ready?"

"I am!"

The two swords were crossed in an instant, with a clear, sharp clang.

The above is all of this story that will be published in our columns. We give this as a sample. The continuation of it from where it leaves off here can only be found in the New York Ledger, the great family paper, for which the most popular writers in the country contribute, and which is for sale at all the stores throughout the city and country, where papers are sold. GREAT IMPROVEMENT IN COOKING STOVES.

CONSUMPTION OF SMOKE AND GAS AND SAVING OF FUEL.

The subscriber takes pleasure in offering to the public a NEW GAS AND SMOKE CONSUMING Cooking Stove, recently patented, which is destined to supersede all others, as it requires ONE-THIRD LESS FUEL than other stoves and is more easily, quickly and regularly heated. No unpleasant smell of gas arises from this stove from the fact that it is all consumed ere it can escape. There is no trouble from smoke as that unpleasant and often annoying exhalation is also consumed inside of the stove Neither is there any danger of flues or chimneys becoming clogged with soot or the mortar loosened by the gas arising from coal fires.

Persons wishing to purchase stoves are invited to call at the store of the subscriber, in the Masonic Temple, and examine the above stoves. JOHN SHOEMAKER, Sole Agent for Blair County.

GREAT DISCOVERY OF THE AGE IMPORTANT TO TOBACCO CHEWERS.
DR. GUSTAV LINNARD'S TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES, the great Substitute for Tobacco.

It is a well known and incontrovertable fact that the use of Tobacco is the promoting cause of many of the most severe.

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL DISORDERS to which the race of man is subject, as careful analysis and long and painful experience have clearly proven that it contains certain narcotic and poisonous properties most dangerous in their effects, which by entering into the blood derange the functions and operations of the Heart, causing many to suppose that organ to be seriously diseased.

TOBACCO affects also the entire nervous system, manifesting itself—as all who have ever used the noxious weed will bear testimony—in Lassitude, Nervous Irritability, Water Brash, Dyspepsia, and many other disorders of a similar character.

THE TASTE RESTORATIVE TROCHES
Are designed to counteract these baneful influences, and have proved completely successful in a multitude of cases, and wherever used. Being harmless in themselves they exert a beneficial effect upon the entire system, restoring the Taste which has become vitiated or destroyed by great indulgence, completely removing the irritation and accompanying tickling sensation of the Throat—which are always consequent upon abstaining from the use of Tobacco, and by giving a healthy tone to the Stomach, invigorate the whole system.

Persons who are irretrievably undermining their constitutions and shortening their lives, should use these Troches immediately and throw off the injurious and and unpleasant habit of Tobacco Chewing.

These Troches of Lozenges are put up in a convenient and portable form at the low price of 50 Cents per Box. A liberal discount to the Trade.

Prepared solely by the undersigned to whom all orders should be addressed.

INTENSE EXCITEMENT!
McCORMICK'S NEW GOODS HAVE ARRIVED AND ARE NOW BEING OPENED FOR INSPECTION AND SALE.

"Halloo, neighbor, I'm here on the ground again. I hope you recollect when I, last year, asked you to hold my horse a moment and tell me where the GREAT was. But it is different now. It reminds me a little of the campaign of 1840, when Gen. Harrison was elected President. You have only to go with the crowd and you will have no difficulty in finding McCORMICK'S STORE. The excitement down the valley, and the spanning of goods I see carried away, they must be selling off very rapidly, and very cheap."

"You are right, my friend; I would say to you, sir, go ahead and your anticipations will be fully realized. He has a very large and well selected assortment of Goods. He'll sell you a dress for fifty cents and give the trimmings into the bargain, I'm told, and all other goods in proportion."

"Good bye, neighbor, that's where I am going to buy my goods."

"That's right, and so should everybody else. Good bye."
